humanitary

Humanitarian crisis is an emergency situation where the lives of a large number of people are threatened and where extraordinary humanitarian aid resources are needed to prevent a catastrophe or at least limit its consequences.

Humanitarian crises are usually characterized by deprivation of food, shelter, risks to health, safety or well-being of a community or a large group of people, in an almost always extensive area. Armed conflicts (wars between countries or civil wars), epidemics, food crisis (due to droughts or plagues) or natural disasters (earthquakes, floods, tsunamis) can lead to humanitarian crises.

We all live in the same world and we all need humanity, compassion and love.
